HELLO THERE, OUR DREAM IS TO HELP YOU MAKE GREAT HAPPEN

Take a holistic approach to clients’ wellbeing

Learn how to make a real difference in Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander communities by providing culturally-specific, clinical and primary health care services to improve clients’ physical, social and mental wellbeing. This course will see you gain the skills to work with patients, clients and visitors to hospitals and health clinics and assist in arranging, coordinating and providing health care in community health clinics.

Units

The successful achievement of this qualification requires you to complete 21 units in total, including 14 core units and 7 elective units, as well as Vocational Placement for those not employed in the Primary Health Care sector. Please be mindful that if you have successfully completed HLT30113 Certificate III in Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Primary Health Care, this will reduce the number of units you are required to undertake in this Certificate IV qualification.

Our Certificate IV program has elective streams so you can focus your study to learn more about an area that you may have an interest in, or are currently working in. These streams include:
- Chronic Disease
- Workplace Training
- Administration and Human resources

You will be required to select which stream you will undertake, at the time of enrolment.
